The bibliography lists monographs, edited books and main articles which as their main topic describe and analyse the global distribution of Hindu traditions in antiquity and modern times. At times a synonymous treatment of "Indian" and "Hindu" had been unavoidable though this usage does not imply that all Indians are necessarily Hindus. The same applies for the usage of "South Asian". For convenience, at the outset a list of some main edited book on the global Hindu diaspora is given. Amendments and suggestions for completion of the bibliography are appreciated. The bibliography is an updated version of a bibliography created in October 2004.
